INTRODUCTION..... 1

BACKGROUND..... 3

    I.    The Merger Agreement. .... 3

    II.   Twitter has brought an expedited action in the Delaware Court of Chancery seeking to enforce the terms of the Merger Agreement. .... 4

    III.  Plaintiff brought this action to enforce the terms of the Merger Agreement. .... 4

    IV.  Another Twitter shareholder has brought a putative class action in the Delaware Court of Chancery seeking to enforce the terms of the Merger Agreement. .... 5

    V.   Plaintiff requests expedited and coordinated discovery allowing him to participate in the Delaware action that Twitter has brought against Musk..... 5

ARGUMENT ..... 5

    I.    Plaintiff is not entitled to expedited or coordinated discovery as a matter of right. .... 5

        A.  Plaintiff must show “good cause” for expedited discovery. .... 5

        B.  Plaintiff has no right to coordinated discovery. .... 5

    II.   The Motion should be denied because Plaintiff lacks standing. .... 6

    III.  The Motion should be denied because Plaintiff filed suit in the wrong forum. .... 7

    IV.  The Motion should be denied because Plaintiff cannot establish “good cause.” ..... 8

    V.   Expedited and coordinated discovery would be inefficient and unnecessary. .... 9

INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff's Motion to Expedite and Coordinate Discovery (the "Motion") should be denied.
3 In the Delaware Court of Chancery, Defendant Twitter, Inc. ("Twitter") is vigorously pursuing a
4 judgment against Musk and his merger affiliates X Holdings I, Inc. and X Holdings II, Inc.
5 (collectively, the "Musk Defendants") that would require them to perform their obligations under
6 the Merger Agreement with Twitter, including their obligation to close the acquisition at the agreed
7 upon price of $54.20 per share. That case is hurtling through expedited discovery and will be tried
8 in less than 60 days – on October 17, 2022. Unwilling to stand back – even briefly – while Twitter
9 pursues enforcement of the Merger Agreement for the benefit of all stockholders, Plaintiff (a
10 purported Twitter stockholder from Virginia) filed a wholly unnecessary claim in this Court
11 demanding substantially the same declaratory and injunctive relief that Twitter is now pursuing in 12 Delaware. Plaintiff also elected to sue Twitter, rather than just the Musk Defendants, presumably in 13 hopes of better explaining why he sued here rather than in Delaware or his home jurisdiction.

14 Plaintiff offers no plausible reason why this Court should take the extraordinary step of 15 effectively intervening in the Delaware action to order that he be permitted to participate in the 16 critical and expedited discovery transpiring there. There are, in fact, overwhelming grounds to deny
17 that relief. First, Plaintiff does not have standing to enforce Twitter's rights under the Merger
18 Agreement. Second, the Merger Agreement makes Delaware the exclusive jurisdiction for any claim
19 arising from the agreement. Given the absence of standing and any right to proceed with his 20 injunctive relief/declaratory judgment claim (the only claim against Twitter) in this Court, there is 21 no basis to grant Plaintiff any discovery at this time, let alone expedited discovery under an
22 extraordinary cross-jurisdictional coordination order. Third, even if Plaintiff had standing and were
23 in the right court, he has not established good cause for the extraordinary relief he seeks. The Motion
24 does not plausibly explain why expediting discovery would be superior to awaiting the outcome of 25 the highly expedited litigation in Delaware. That litigation is virtually certain to render Plaintiff's
26 claim for injunctive/declaratory relief moot. To the extent Plaintiff seeks money damages, the only
27 distinction he draws with the Delaware action, such claims are no basis for injunctive relief or

28 expedited proceedings. See Ellis Inv. Corp. v. Wynn, 2021 WL 2024225 (D. Cal. Aug. 20, 2021).
