Case No. 16-cv-02001-JSW

ER RESOLVING CROSS-TIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT AND SETTING STATUS CONFERENCE

Re: Dkt. No. 155, 157

Now before the Court for consideration are the cross-motions for summary judgment, filed by Plaintiff Narciso Fuentes ("Fuentes") and Defendant Dish Network L.L.C. ("Dish"). The Court has considered the parties papers, relevant legal authority, and the record in this case, and the Court HEREBY GRANTS, IN PART, AND DENIES, IN PART, Dish's motion, and GRANTS Fuentes' motion.

BACKGROUND

Fuentes' claims against Dish are based on alleged violations of four California statutes: the Home Solicitation Sales Act ("HSSA"), Translation Act ("CTA"), the Consumer Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), and the Unfair Competition Law ("UCL"). The facts, which are undisputed unless 22 otherwise noted, supporting these claims are as follows:

On or about August 1, 2015, Fuentes, who speaks Spanish, received a Spanish language postcard in the mail advertising Dish's satellite television service for $19.99 per month for 12 months. The postcard included other terms and conditions, in small print, including the following: (1) if service was terminated during the first 24 months, a cancellation fee of $20 per month remaining on the contract would apply; and (2) the prices for certain equipment. (Dkt. No. 155-3,

Declaration of Clifford E. Yin ("Yin Decl."), ¶ 5, Ex. A (Deposition of Narciso Fuentes ("Fuentes Depo.") at 73:5-20, 75:21-77:23; Dkt. No. 155-4, Fuentes Depo. Ex. 41.)

Dish has some month-to-month subscription options, and those customers pay Dish's full retail rates and purchase Dish's equipment. In order to determine if a customer qualifies for promotional rates and the option to lease equipment, Dish will run a credit check, with a customer's permission. (Dkt. No. 156-4, Declaration of Elliot Conn in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment ("Conn MSJ Decl."), ¶ 9, Ex. H (Deposition of Mark Vervaet ("Vervaet Depo.") at 13:17-22, 39:7-41:5; Dkt. No. 168-1, Declaration of Elliot Conn in Opposition to Dish Motion for Summary Judgment ("Conn Opp. Decl."), ¶¶ 3-4, Ex. B (Deposition of Paul Orban ("Orban Depo.") at 20:11-21:14, 46:17-22, 47:1-10), Ex. C (Deposition of Shannon Picchione ("Picchione Depo.") at 16:16-25, 18:7-12, 22:3-23:18, 25:16-26:18, 31:24-33:8.)

On August 2, 2022 Fuentes called Dish, spoke with its employee Claudia Flores, and asked whether the offer of $19.99 per month was "with a contract? ... or, is it more on a monthly basis." Flores asked Mr. Fuentes some questions about the type of televisions he had in his home and what type of programs he liked to watch. She then advised Fuentes that to determine if Dish could give him the promotion, she would need to run a credit check, and Fuentes gave permission to run it. (Dkt. No. 155-14, Declaration of Jodeci Guzman ("Guzman Decl."), ¶¶ 2, 5-6, Exs. C-D (Transcripts of Recordings on 8/2/15 ("8/2/15 Tr.") at 1-7).)¹ Flores then advised Fuentes he qualified for two offers, both of which required two year terms: (1) a fixed price for both years; and (2) a discounted price during the first year that would increase during the second. Flores also explained that the $19.99 offer was for one TV and represented the cost of the programming without a digital recorder. (8/2/15 Tr. at 8-9.) Fuentes did not subscribe that day because Dish could not offer him $19.99 per month for one year. (Fuentes Depo. at 72:9-12.)

On August 6, 2015, Fuentes called Dish again and spoke with Paulina Nunez ("Nunez"). (Guzman Decl., ¶¶ 3-4, Exs. A-B (Transcripts of Recordings on 8/6/15 ("8/6/15 Tr."); see also Fuentes Depo. at 52:20-53:8).) Fuentes testified that he called Dish again because he wanted to determine if he could get a one-year contract. (Fuentes Depo. at 75:317.) Like Flores, Nunez advised Fuentes she would need to run a credit check in order to determine what offers would be available, and Fuentes consented. (8/6/15 Tr. at 2-5). When Nunez pulled up the offers available to him, she also referred Fuentes to the small print on the postcard regarding the prices for equipment, and Fuentes acknowledged those prices. (Id. at 6-7.) Nunez advised Fuentes about an offer would give him a promotional rate of $19.99 for the first year, plus $12.00 for the "Hopper equipment." (Id. at 7.)² Nunez also explained that Fuentes would receive three months of certain premium channels and six months of protection for the equipment for free, but if he did not want to be charged for those items, he would need to cancel them on or before the trial periods ended. (Id. at 20-22.)

Nunez advised Fuentes she was "going to go over the clauses of the plan" and advised Fuentes that: "all of the equipment is rented;" there would be a charge for unreturned equipment; he had "selected the offer of savings for the first year, upon signing up"; and Dish would "automatically charge" him for the amount due. Nunez asked Fuentes if he wanted to sign up, and he said, "Uh-huh. All right." (Id. at 24.) Nunez then advised Fuentes that the "price of the package" was $19.99 for the first year and when that promotional period was over it would be $44.99 per month, that he needed to keep the premium channels for three months "to receive this offer," that he would be charged extra for those channels if he did not cancel after three months, and that he would receive the protection plan free for six months, but after six months he would be charged extra for that service, unless he cancelled.

Nunez also advised Fuentes that "[b]y receiving these offers, you are going to accept a 24month contract. ... If you break this agreement, you will be charged for early termination, for the cost of $20 for each month that you have your contract," and that his initial bill would be $31.99. (Id. at 25.) Nunez also stated, "...all the prices, programming, functionality, offers are subject to change. Dish may increase your monthly bill at any time. However, the price of your programming package is protected for 12 months. Okay?" Nunez asked Fuentes if he "agree[d] to

Nunez actually stated that the price was "20 dollars" plus the equipment. (Id. at 7-9.)

the DHAP by reference. (Fuentes Depo. at 129:4-130:11, 188:16-21; Conn MSJ Decl., ¶¶ 2, 8, Ex. A (Fuentes Depo. Ex. 42 (RCA and DHAP), Ex. G (Deposition of Megan Casados ("Casados Depo.") at 57:10-58:2).) Dish requires a customer to sign the DHAP, either on paper or electronically, in order to receive service, and customers normally sign the DHAP at the location where the service is installed. (Casados Depo. at 73:14-75:4, 79:18-24.)

Because the document on the tablet was in English, Fuentes was not able to read it but "saw a lot of 24s." (Fuentes Depo. at 125:3-23, 150:24-151;1.) Fuentes told the technician that he did not want to sign and, according to Fuentes, the technician told him to sign the document and "call the company and handle that." (Id. at 123:4-126:16.) Fuentes also testified that he did not know how to ask for a Spanish version of the document and could not ask his wife, who speaks English, for assistance because she was in the shower. However, Fuentes also testified that he did not ask for assistance when his wife was available. (Fuentes Depo. at 124:19-23, 126:12-24.) The Dish technician did not – and could not – provide Fuentes with a Spanish version of the DHAP because it is not available on Dish's tablets. (Casados Depo. at 62:1-10 79:18-24, 109:19-110:1.)

According to Fuentes, he signed the DHAP because even though he saw the references to 24 months, he believed he had reached an agreement with Nunez for a one-year contract. Fuentes called Dish within a few days to "handle that issue," and it is undisputed that Fuentes was not able to modify the term of his contract. (Id. 130:20-25, 139:12-20, 211:18-25, 213:1-7; see also Conn MSJ Decl., Ex. D (Declaration of Narciso Fuentes in Support of Motion for Class Certification, ¶¶ 7-11).) It also is undisputed that Fuentes' DHAP and the RCA contain terms and conditions in addition to the terms Nunez read during the telephone call with Fuentes. Fuentes terminated his Dish subscription in August 2017 and has not subscribed since that time. (Fuentes Depo. at 45:11-19, 237:1-9).)

The Court will address additional facts as necessary in the analysis.
