Re: Docket No. CP22-2-000; GTN XPress Project Draft Environmental Impact Statement

Dear Secretary Bose:

I am submitting the attached comment on behalf of Pipeliners Local 798, a trades union representing the nation's most skilled and dedicated industry craftsmen. This comment is to be considered during the commission's review of TC Energy's Gas Transmission Northwest Pipeline (GTN) XPress Project's Draft Environmental Impact Statement.

Our members collected 1,861 signatures on this particular comment because we recognize the tremendous benefits associated with the GTN XPress Project, as well as the special care that project leaders are taking to ensure this is built in the most environmentally respectful way. A significant investment in the region's natural gas infrastructure network, this project will help meet growing demand for affordable and reliable energy while supporting good jobs for skilled craftsmen, many of whom are dedicated Local 798 members.

I urge the commission to consider the voices on the following pages when deciding the future of this important project that will ensure the existing GTN system continues to safely and efficiently deliver energy to families and businesses across the Pacific Northwest.

Sincerely,

Danny Hendrix

Re: Docket No. CP22-2-000; GTN XPress Project Draft Environmental Impact Statement

Dear Secretary Bose:

I stand with Pipeliners Local 798 in support of TC Energy's Gas Transmission Northwest Pipeline (GTN) XPress Project. This is a $335 million investment in the natural gas infrastructure and delivery network in Oregon, Washington and Idaho that will help meet increased market demand across the region.

As the company's largest pipeline investment, GTN currently provides a critical service delivering reliable, cost-effective natural gas from Western Canada and the Rocky Mountains to local utilities and facilities across the Pacific Northwest and California. The GTN XPress Project will ensure this system continues to safely deliver this energy source to families and businesses across the region.

I support the GTN XPress Project for the following key reasons:

- Projects like this are necessary to meet the region's growing demand for clean-burning natural gas, which has made up a larger portion of the electricity mix in Oregon, in particular, in recent years as the state phases out coal;
- Investment in the GTN pipeline system will ensure reliable energy delivery for nearly half a million average American homes and businesses;
- A $335 million investment, GTN is TC Energy's largest-ever organic growth opportunity, supporting good jobs for local craftsmen and generating substantial economic activity.

Residents, business owners and community members across the Pacific Northwest are counting on investments like the GTN XPress Project to help the natural gas delivery network continue to meet their daily energy needs. This is why I urge the swift approval of necessary permits for this project.

Sincerely,
