FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS COMMON TO ALL COUNTS

-6-

On or about April 4, 2020 Megan Swinney suddenly lost consciousness at her home where she died in front of her husband and young child, H.S. as her husband attempted CPR until paramedics arrived.

-7-

Upon conducting an autopsy of her body, it was discovered that Megan Swinney's cause of death was acute Pulmonary Thromboembolism in her lungs resulting from Deep Vein Thrombosis ("DVT") or blood clot in layman's terms.

-8-

At the time of her death and the preceding months, Megan Swinney was using the prescription birth control patch, Xulane, which is a norelgestromin and ethinyl estradiol transdermal medication. Xulane was previously a generic label, and the brand label was called Ortho Evra. By the time Megan Swinney was using this medication, the manufacturer of Ortho Evra had ceased the sale of Ortho Evra within the United States and had forfeited its brand label status and accompanying FDA obligations to Defendants as the sole manufacturer and distributor of this medication within the United States.

Xulane was manufactured and marketed by Defendant Mylan at the time it was proscribed to and used by Ms. Swinney.

-10-

Upon information and belief, Mylan has subsequently merged or otherwise changed its corporate identity to now be known as Viatriis, Inc. and/or Viatriis Specialty, LLC. Upon information and belief, resulting from a merger and/or asset purchase agreement, Viatriis, Inc. and Viatriis Specialty, LLC are jointly and severally liable in the same manner as Mylan for all liability as alleged in this suit.

-11-

Unknown to Ms. Swinney or her physicians but known to Defendants prior to Ms. Swinney's death, Xulane posed an extreme risk of causing DVT among women with a body mass index (BMI) of 30 kg/m² or more.

-12-

Ms. Swinney's body mass index was greater than 30 kg/m² at all times during which she was using the Xulane patch, and use of the Xulane patch directly and proximately caused her death.
