17	JUDGE MEDLEY: Good afternoon, everyone. This
18	is the hearing for IPR2012-0020 and IPR2012-00023. So, we'll
19	proceed first with the hearing in IPR2012-00020, and then we're
20	going to take a short break and let everybody reconvene and get
21	situated, and then we'll begin with the case for 00023.
22	So, at this time we would like the parties to please
23	introduce themselves, starting with the petitioner.
24	MS. GORDON: I'm Lori Gordon, I'll be arguing
25	today on behalf of the petitioner, Intellectual Ventures
26	Management. With me today is Robert Sterne, also from the law

1 firm of Sterne Kessler, and Omar Amin from the law firm of 2 Sterne Kessler. 3 JUDGE MEDLEY: Ms. Gordon, will you also be 4 arguing for 00023? 5 MS. GORDON: Yes. 6 JUDGE MEDLEY: For patent owner? 7 MR. O'DELL: Hello, my name is David O'Dell, I'm 8 with the law firm Haynes and Boone, I'll be representing the 9 patent owner XILINX. With me today is my co-counsel, David 10 McCombs, also with Haynes and Boone. Mr. McCombs will be 11 arguing for the first one, matter 00020, and then I will be 12 arguing for the second one, matter 00023. 13 JUDGE MEDLEY: Great. Okay, thank you. 14 So, as you recall from the order, each party gets 20 minutes total for the first case, for 00020, and each party may 15 16 reserve rebuttal time if they wish to. 17 So, we'll begin with the petitioner, and just let us 18 know would you like to reserve rebuttal time? 19 MS. GORDON: Yes, we would like to reserve ten 20 minutes. 21 JUDGE MEDLEY: Ten minutes, okay, great. You 22 may begin. 23 MS. GORDON: So, we've prepared demonstratives 24 that we may use to aid the discussion. We uploaded them, per

1 the order yesterday, to PRPS. We have extra copies if you need2 them.

JUDGE MEDLEY: I think we're okay.
MS. GORDON: Okay, great, thank you.
So, there's two disputes that remain in this proceeding between the parties. The first is whether dependent claims 2 through 7 are obvious over the Wennekamp reference. And the second issue in dispute is whether independent claim 8 is obvious over the combination of Wennekamp and Miller. Both these issues are dispositive for all claims under review in this proceeding.

12 So, turning to the first issue, whether claims 2 13 through 7 are obvious over Wennekamp. Claims 2 through 7 14 depend from claim 1. We'll put claim 1 up here for reference. 15 Patent owner does not dispute that claim 1 is unpatentable, based 16 on the grounds instituted for this trial; however, the only 17 distinction that patent owner is raising relative to dependent claims 2 through 7 is that Wennekamp does not teach or suggest 18 19 a multi-die IC, and this is a limitation that's only recited in 20 independent claim 1, a claim that patent owner does not dispute 21 is unpatentable over either Wennekamp or the combination of 22 Wennekamp and Miller.

JUDGE MEDLEY: So, just let me interrupt you real quickly. So, how should we reconcile that? So, we've read in your papers that patent owner cancels claim 1 and then perhaps they concede that claim 1 is unpatentable, but then they argue that claims 2 through 7, which depend on 1, are patentable over the prior art, based on a feature that is in the cancelled claim 1.

 So, how is the Board to reconcile that?

5 MS. GORDON: Right, and we also struggle with how 6 to reconcile that. We note that claim 1, there were two grounds 7 of rejection to claim 1, whether it was obvious over Wennekamp, 8 standing alone, or obvious over Wennekamp in view of Miller. 9 Our only way we can make this have any sense is that patent 10 owner may be conceding that the combination of Wennekamp 11 and Miller renders claim 1 unpatentable; however, that they don't 12 believe that Wennekamp standing on its own renders claim 1 13 unpatentable.

JUDGE MEDLEY: Okay, and we'll, of course, have an opportunity to ask patent owner their position on that. Thank you.

MS. GORDON: So, we're proceeding to address the substance of patent owner's position. So, as we said, the patent owner isn't individually arguing any of the features of the dependent claims 2 through 7.

The evidence of record in this case, both from Intellectual Ventures Management's expert, Morgan Johnson, and patent owner's expert establishes, in fact, that a person of ordinary skill in the art would have and could have modified the Wennekamp reference as set forth by the petitioner. So, there's
