Patent 7,075,917 B2

Before SALLY C. MEDLEY, KALYAN K. DESHPANDE, and ROBERT J. WEINSCHENK, Administrative Patent Judges.

DECISION
Granting Institution of Inter Partes Review
35 U.S.C. § 314

Granting Motion for Joinder
37 C.F.R. § 42.122(b)

I. INTRODUCTION

Apple Inc. (“Petitioner”) filed a Petition for inter partes review of claims 1–3, 9, and 10 of U.S. Patent No. 7,075,917 B2 (Ex. 1001, “the ’917 patent”). Paper 1 (“Pet.”). Petitioner also filed a Motion for Joinder with Microsoft Corporation v. Uniloc 2017 LLC, Case IPR2019-00973 (“the 973 IPR”). Paper 3 (“Mot.”). Uniloc 2017 LLC (“Patent Owner”) filed a Preliminary Response to the Petition. Paper 9 (“Prelim. Resp.”). Patent Owner also filed an Opposition to the Motion for Joinder. Paper 7 (“Opp.”). Petitioner filed a Reply to Patent Owner’s Opposition. Paper 8 (“Reply”). We have authority under 35 U.S.C. § 314(a), which provides that an inter partes review may not be instituted “unless . . . there is a reasonable likelihood that the petitioner would prevail with respect to at least 1 of the claims challenged in the petition.”

For the reasons described below, we institute an inter partes review of the challenged claims and grant Petitioner’s Motion for Joinder.

II. RELATED PROCEEDINGS

The parties indicate that the ’917 patent is the subject of several court proceedings and the 973 IPR. Pet. vii; Paper 5, 2. The ’917 patent also was the subject of Apple Inc. v. Uniloc 2017 LLC, IPR2019-00259 (“the 259 IPR”) where a decision to not institute inter partes review was rendered. Id. The ’917 patent also is the subject of IPR2020-00315. Paper 5, 2.

In the 973 IPR, we instituted an inter partes review of claims 1–3, 9, and 10 of the '917 patent on the following ground:

Claims Challenged	35 U.S.C. §	References
1–3, 9, 10	103(a)	TR25.825 ¹ and Abrol ²

Microsoft Corporation v. Uniloc 2017 LLC, IPR2019-00973, Paper 7 at 5, 28 (PTAB Nov. 19, 2019) (“973 Decision” or “973 Dec.”).

III. INSTITUTION OF INTER PARTES REVIEW

The Petition in this proceeding asserts the same ground of unpatentability as the one on which we instituted review in the 973 IPR. Compare Pet. 3, with 973 Dec. 5, 28. Indeed, Petitioner contends that the Petition “is substantially substantively identical to the Microsoft Petition, containing only ministerial differences related to formalities of a different party filing the petition.” Mot. 4. Petitioner further explains that it relies on the same declaration from the same expert. Id.

We have considered Patent Owner’s Preliminary Response. Prelim. Resp. 1–44. Certain of Patent Owner’s arguments and evidence supporting its position that claims 1–3, 9, and 10 would not have been obvious were previously addressed in the 973 Decision, and we need not address them here again. Certain other arguments against the merits of the Petition closely mirror arguments made in the Patent Owner Response filed in the 973 IPR (compare Prelim. Resp. 30–33, with 973 IPR Paper 9, 28–31). Those common arguments will be fully considered in the 973 IPR after Microsoft has filed its Reply and Patent Owner has filed its Sur-Reply, and with the benefit of a complete record. Based on the record before us, Patent Owner's Preliminary Response arguments on the merits do not persuade us that Petitioner has not demonstrated a reasonable likelihood of success in prevailing on the same ground as instituted in the 973 IPR.

Patent Owner also argues that we should exercise our discretion to deny institution under 35 U.S.C. § 314(a), citing and discussing the General Plastic factors. Prelim. Resp. 14–16; Opp. 7–9 (citing General Plastic Industrial Co., Ltd. v. Canon Kabushiki Kaisha, IPR2016-01357, Paper 19 at 16 (PTAB Sept. 6, 2017) (precedential as to § II.B.4.i)). Petitioner argues that the General Plastic factors do not apply here, where Petitioner seeks to join as a party to the 973 IPR and take an inactive or understudy role. Mot. 8–9 (citing Apple Inc. v. Uniloc 2017 LLC, IPR2018-00580, Paper 13 at 10 (PTAB Aug. 21, 2018) and Celltrion, Inc. v. Genetech, Inc., IPR2019-01019, Paper 11 at 10 (PTAB Oct. 30, 2018)); Reply 3–5.

In General Plastic, the Board recognized certain goals of the AIA, but also “recognized[d] the potential for abuse of the review process by repeated attacks on patents.” General Plastic, Paper 19, at 16–17. We agree with Petitioner that the General Plastic factors are not particularly pertinent here where Petitioner seeks to join the 973 IPR in a “completely inactive” role. Reply 2. In general, an identical “me too” or “copycat” petition accompanied by a motion to join an earlier proceeding is not a repeated attack on a patent. For instance, joinder of Petitioner to the 973 IPR will not put additional burden on the Board or interfere with the Board's ability to issue a final written decision in the 973 IPR, where here, Petitioner represents it will, so long as Microsoft remains a party in the 973 IPR, agree to a “completely inactive” role. Reply 2.

Nor has the Petitioner used prior preliminary responses or decisions of the Board to tailor its substantive arguments in the Petition. Rather, the arguments are identical to those in the 973 IPR petition. Moreover, Petitioner filed its Petition no later than one month after the institution date of the 973 IPR in compliance with 37 C.F.R. § 42.122(b) and is timely, notwithstanding the General Plastic timing factors. For these reasons, and based on the record before us, we determine that instituting review here would not result in an abuse of the review process.

IV. GRANT OF MOTION FOR JOINDER

The Petition in this proceeding was accorded a filing date of December 18, 2019. See Paper 4. The 973 IPR was instituted on November 19, 2019. Petitioner filed a Motion for Joinder on December 18, 2019. Paper 3. Thus, Petitioner’s Motion for Joinder is timely because joinder was requested no later than one month after the November 19, 2019 institution date of the 973 IPR. See 37 C.F.R. § 42.122(b).

The statutory provision governing joinder in inter partes review proceedings is 35 U.S.C. § 315(c), which reads:

If the Director institutes an inter partes review, the Director, in his or her discretion, may join as a party to that inter partes review any person who properly files a petition under section 311 that the Director, after receiving a preliminary response under section 313 or the expiration of the time for filing such a response, determines warrants the institution of an inter partes review under section 314.

A motion for joinder should (1) set forth reasons why joinder is appropriate; (2) identify any new grounds of unpatentability asserted in the petition;
