I. INTRODUCTION

We have jurisdiction to hear these inter partes reviews under 35 U.S.C. § 6(c). This Final Written Decision is issued pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 318(a) and 37 C.F.R. § 42.73. For the reasons discussed herein, Petitioner has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that claims 2 and 3 of U.S. Patent No. 6,771,290 B1 are unpatentable.

A. Procedural History

Petitioner, Google, Inc., filed two Petitions<sup>1</sup> for inter partes review of claims 2 and 3 of U.S. Patent No. 6,771,290 B1 (31 Ex. 1001, “the ’290 patent”).<sup>2</sup> 31 Paper 1 (“31 Pet.”); 33 Paper 1 (“33 Pet.”). Patent Owner, B.E. Technology, L.L.C., did not file a Preliminary Response to either Petition. In each proceeding, subsequent to institution, Patent Owner filed a Patent Owner Response (31 Paper 23, “31 PO Resp.”; 33 Paper 23, “33 PO Resp.”), and Petitioner filed a Reply to the Patent Owner Response (31 Paper 25, “31 Reply”; 33 Paper 25, “33 Reply”). On December 11, 2014, we held a consolidated hearing for five inter partes reviews involving

By storing user profiles and user libraries on the server, users “can have world-wide access to their preferences, addresses, bookmarks, email, and files without having to physically transport them from one place to another.” Id. at 13:9–12.

The ’290 patent further describes a user interface on a client computer, provided by a graphical user interface (GUI) module. Id. at 13:41–43. The user interface comprises an application window with selectable items such as icons. Id. at 13:43–53. As shown in Figure 5b, the application window may include “icons that represent various files and links to information resources.” Id. at 15:48–53.
