What is?

TDX (Theses and Dissertations Online) is a digital cooperative repository of doctoral theses presented at some Spanish universities. The consultation of theses is opened and allows the user to construct searches on the complete text of the files by author, advisor, title, keywords, university and department of publication, year of defense, etc. This repository, managed by the Consorci de Serveis Universitaris de Catalunya (CSUC), and sponsored by the Generalitat (government) of Catalonia, has the following goals:

To publicise, around the world and on the Internet, the results of university research.
To offer the authors of theses a tool to increase public access to their work, enhancing its visibility.
To stimulate the open scientific production.

The universities that take part in TDX disseminate the repository among their doctorate students with the aim of, once their theses be presented and approved, they hand in the information needed to introduce their theses on TDX. Since 2007 there have been carried out digitalization projects as well, in order to add those theses only preserved in original format (paper or microfiche) on TDX. Through these digitalization projects more than 1.400 theses have been converted into digital format, among them there is, for instance, the these of the first Spanish woman with a medical degree and Ph.D. TDX received in 2008 and in 2009 a grant from the Dirección General del Libro, Archivos y Bibliotecas del Ministerio de Cultura.

The author's rights of the thesis are protected by a declaration that specify the conditions. A lot of thesis are using Creative Commons licenses. The terms and conditions of use are specified when registering each thesis (in the metadata's). To visualize the complete text of the thesis, Adobe Acrobat Reader must be installed on the user's computer. If you do not have it, you can download it free of charge from Adobe web site.

TDX came into being as a result of the Digital University in Catalonia 1999-2003 agreement, signed on 8 September 1999 by the then representatives of the Department of the Universities, Research and the Information Society of the Generalitat, the University of Barcelona (UB), the Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB), the Technical University of Catalonia (UPC), Pompeu Fabra University (UPF), the University of Girona (UdG), the University of Lleida (UdL), Rovira i Virgili University (URV), the Open University of Catalonia (UOC), the Catalan Research Foundation (FCR), CESCA and CBUC. Jaume I University (UJI), the Balearic Islands University (UIB), the Ramon Llull University (URL), the Vic University (UVic-UCC), the Abat Oliba University (UAO),the International University of Catalonia (UIC), the Andorra University (UdA) subsequently joined the network in July 2002, December 2002, October 2004, March 2005, July 2005, June 2006, May 2007, December 2007, January 2008 and April 2013.

Since 2011 TDX participates in the cooperative network MetaArchive with the aim of ensuring the preservation of theses and being in one of the world pioneer initiatives in this field. This preservation is being carried out through LOCKSS software.

The theses included on TDX are described with Dublin Core metadata and use the interoperability protocol OAI-PMH (Open Archives Initiative-Protocol for Metadata Harvesting), which permits increasing its visibility when offering together with other repositories, such as, for instance, DART-Europe E-theses Portal (where TDX participates represented by Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya) or OpenAIRE.
