(57) ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a measuring tape for tape rule consisting of a metallic main body formed into concave upwards shape with a hook provided to its free end, and is labeled with successive graduations and numerals as scales on its upper surface. A transparent protective layer is respectively provided on its upper and lower surface by coating. The front section of the tape near its free end is further protected by enhancing protective layers in proper length by coating on both surfaces of the tape.
